Request for Proposals

Rapid scoping review on advancing quality services for the mental health of older adults.

Submission Deadline: 11:59PM EST, Monday, January 31, 2022

Purpose

The Mental Health Commission of Canada (MHCC) is seeking a consultant to conduct a rapid scoping review and stakeholder map about the current landscape across Canada related to the mental health of older adults. Over the past two years, in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, numerous new policies and programs have been put in place to address the disproportionate pandemic impact on older adults in Canada, while understanding that issues existed prior to, and will remain after the pandemic recedes. This scoping review will take stock of strategies, programs and policies that address older adult mental health and discuss key barriers, lessons, and recommendations of where efforts should be directed for improvement.

This rapid scoping review will help to inform the development of the MHCC’s older adult mental health strategy by:

- Identifying system gaps and areas for action for the MHCC at a national level,
- Informing a future national older adult mental health action plan, and,
- Ensuring future actions do not duplicate other existing ongoing work by others in this space and amplify existing best practices.

Background

The MHCC has supported work in older adult mental health since its inception. Older adult mental health was identified as priority 1.4 in the Mental Health strategy for Canada. The MHCC has developed a range of projects to help policy makers, service providers, and caregivers ensure that older Canadians get the mental health supports they need. Seminal to the MHCC’s work in this area are the Guidelines for Comprehensive Mental Health Services for Older Adults in Canada (the Guidelines). The Guidelines provide evidence-based recommendations to service providers and policy makers on ensuring a comprehensive service system that is inclusive of the mental health of older adults in a variety of settings.
The MHCC’s 2021–2026 Health Canada workplan includes a renewed focus on older adult mental health, including mobilizing key stakeholders to spread best practices, promote evidence-based research to improve quality, collaboration, and access across the continuum of health services.

With the growth in our aging population, mental health problems and illnesses among older adults are likely to affect every family. If not addressed, the increasing pressure on the health-care system will have significant social and economic impacts.

While mental health in older adults is as important as mental health in any other stage of life, it does not always receive the attention and services that it requires. COVID-19 has disproportionately impacted older adults in Canada, with most COVID-19 deaths occurring in long-term care homes. COVID’s most obvious effects have been on physical health, but the pandemic has also had a profound impact on the mental health of older adults (MHCC, 2021).

Scope
The scoping review could include, but is not limited to:
- Overview of the unique mental health care needs of older adults;
- Brief description of:
  o rates of people living with mental health problems or illnesses who are considered an older adult (55+) – stratified by priority populations (e.g., IRER, LGBTQ2S+, First Nations, Inuit and Metis, Women and Youth)
  o Gaps in mental health services related to diverse groups of older adults across society and access to services,
- An assessment/environmental scan of evidence-based best practices and lessons learned of policies, strategies, standards, and programs that support the mental health of older adults;
  o Review should focus on Canada (national and provincial) but can also include international best practices where appropriate.
  o limitations and barriers to access and outcomes by priority population and sub-population.
  o Gap analysis of system changes and resource needs to support the mental health of older adults across both the community and long-term care settings;
  o Appraisal of limitations of the current evidence, opportunities for future research, and recommendations of areas for action.
- A stakeholder map that represents the organizations who are responsible for, or involved in advancing the mental health of older adults and how they are connected or influence each other.

The MHCC intends to align efforts with The UN Decade of Healthy Ageing (the Decade). The Decade focuses on four action areas, including:

- Ageism: changing how people think, feel and act towards age and ageing
- Age-Friendly Environments: ensuring that communities foster the abilities of older people
- Integrated Health Services: deliver person-centred integrated care and primary health services responsive to older people
- Long-term Care: provide access to long-term care for older people who need it

Findings and recommendations from the Scoping Review should be organized / categorized into the four action areas with a specific focus on mental health.

Note: we are open to other suggestions and recommendations on the overall scope of this review.

Deliverables

1. A project plan for the scoping review and stakeholder map, including stage-based planning, scope, timelines, and budget
2. Proposed scope and search parameters for the literature review and stakeholder map
3. A literature review, based on the barriers and facilitators related to the mental health of older adults
4. A map of key stakeholders in the sector
5. A final report that includes the findings and recommendations for action, connected to the four action areas of the Decade.

Note: The MHCC will be responsible for communications supports, including translation, editing, and design for all public-facing content.

Qualifications

The successful candidate will:
Be experienced in conducting qualitative research, content auditing, and assessment of various audiences, particularly decision makers, policy makers, and health-care service providers

Be experienced in conducting research related to older adult mental health

Be familiar with the role of the MHCC and other key guiding documents (below)

Have the capacity (internal or with external support) to review relevant French-only Canadian literature and policies.
